ABSTRACT:

The main purpose of this Webinar is to discuss the Ethical Guidelines for Statistical Practice from the American Statistical Association. We will illustrate some possible ethical conflicts in statistical consulting environment and several real-life events will also be used to demonstrate how those ethical guidelines can help statistics practitioners to make decisions.

BIO:
Dr. Shuling Liu is the Director of Statistical Consulting Unit, Department of Statistics, Texas A&M University. She received her B.A. in Statistics from Renmin University of China, M.S. in Biostatistics from University at Buffalo, and Ph.D. in Biostatistics from Emory University. She worked as an associate research scientist at the Center for Outcomes Research and Evaluation at Yale University for a few years before join Texas A&M. She has over 10 years' experience in collaborative research by working with multidisciplinary researchers and leading research teams to conduct studies in various fields of healthcare, clinical trials and personal health informatics etc.